The 2009 S.L.U.G. Queen Competition & Coronation

IMPORTANT COMPETITION INFORMATION

- The selection of the 2009 Queen is entirely at the whim of the assembled old S.L.U.G. Queens and celebrity judges.
- Judging is made in three categories: Costume, Talent Act and The Question. Your “talent” act will be limited to three minutes. Really! It will! First Lady in Waiting Kim will contact you to go over any sound/technical needs you may have.
- Contestants must be 21 or older, but there are no other restrictions of any kind with regard to sex, gender/sexual orientation, appearance, race, disability, creed, faux pas’, species, etc. The S.L.U.G. Queen embodies the spirit of diversity.
- Contestants must enter in the spirit of fun and may be tastefully tacky, but not gross and disgusting.
- Bear in mind that this is a family event, therefore overt, strong references to sex, drug or alcohol use and other “adult” themes are inappropriate and will disqualify you. Local politics and rock & roll are fair game, though.
- Contestants should understand the duties of the S.L.U.G. Queen. During the Eugene Celebration the Queen’s appearances include the Celebration Parade, Saturday, September 5th at 9:30 a.m., and attendance at other Celebration events. The Queen is expected to make herself available for events of royal merit throughout the year of her reign and to participate in the organization of the 2010 coronation, to pass on her wealth of experience and stash of slime.
- Important Parade Information: Should you win, you have a place in the Parade. Since it’s so close, some arrangements have been made! Kim will let you know about that.
- Bribing the judges is acceptable before and during the competition, First Lady In Waiting Kim can provide you with a list of Queenly email addresses if you would like to pursue bribery in advance of the competition.
- Being crowned 2009 S.L.U.G. Queen escalates one into the public realm and requires appearances before people of all ages; appropriate attitude is required.
- Do not hesitate to contact First Lady inWaiting Kim with any questions you may have. Call her at 686-8885 (Saturday Market office) or email kimstill@eugenesaturdaymarket.org.
